

THREE SPEAK IN NORTHUMBERLAND

Montague, Swanson and Willard on Same Platform.

SWANSON GETS A BOQUET

Gubernatorial Candidates Exceedingly Friendly, and Had No Clashes.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) HEATHSVILLE, VA., June 12.—Today was a field day in Northumberland politics. Montague, Swanson and Willard spoke in the order named. The three candidates arrived here early this morning, and the courthouse was given over to them at 12 o'clock.

Governor Montague and off in an hour and a half, almost wholly devoted to criticisms of Senator Martin's official record. The Governor enlisted little applause, and his friends seemed disconcerted.

Swanson and Willard met for the first time during the campaign, and the crowd was not a little interested, as it was thought something of a sensational character might occur, but both these gentlemen's speeches were much the same as those they had made at other places. Mr. Swanson won round after round of applause and seemed to catch the big audience, among whom were many ladies. At the close of his speech, Commonwealth's Attorney C. S. Towles presented the Congressman with a bouquet in the name of the ladies, to the next Governor of Virginia.

Mr. Willard, like those who had preceded him, was introduced by County Chairman A. S. Rice and met with quite a flattering reception and attention. He made a pleasing impression upon his audience.

It has been conceded all along that this county would give a small majority for Martin and Swanson, but the big gathering here today can be taken as a fair indication. Northumberland is overwhelmingly for these two candidates.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Willard's Fine Speech Caused Much Favorable Comment.

The following report also from a Times-Dispatch correspondent gives more favorable outlook for Montague and Willard:

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WARSAW, VA., June 12.—Governor Montague, Congressman Swanson and Lieutenant-Governor Joseph E. Willard addressed a large and representative body of voters at Heathsville today in the interest of their respective canvasses, and none of the gentlemen save Governor Montague, who appeared here in his campaign for Attorney-General and ever spoken in Northumberland before, and naturally there was great interest in the meeting. Governor Montague arrived at the courthouse early in the day and spent the forenoon mingling with his friends and supporters. He spoke first, making his usual earnest and eloquent appeal to the masses of the people. His speech was well received, and his appearance in the county made him many new and enthusiastic friends. Mr. Swanson has many active friends in the county, and his appearance on the platform was a signal for considerable applause. He spoke vigorously for three-quarters of an hour, and his friends in the audience were much pleased with his address, but the best speech of the day was that of Lieutenant-Governor Willard. His address was earnest, able, practicable and logical, and showed that he has given proper, careful and intelligent thought to the many problems which will confront him if elected Governor of the State. He spoke for one hour and fifteen minutes, and held the rapt attention of his hearers. Every one who heard him was greatly pleased, and, whilst it was heretofore thought that Northumberland was a Swanson stronghold, it was perfectly evident from the frequent and prolonged applause Mr. Willard received and the expressions of the representative people, that he had a great many friends present and that he gained a great many more.

One of the best informed business men of the county was heard to remark after Mr. Willard had concluded his address that the fight in the county was now between Willard and Mann. As between Martin and Montague, Northumberland is undoubtedly for the Governor by a good, safe majority. The friends of both Montague and Willard are

SUBWAY SYNDICATE.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Thomas F. Ryan, Peter A. B. Widener and Edward J. Berwind are the three capitalists who are soon to enter the rapid transit field of New York, and under the name of the Metropolitan Syndicate, bid for the construction of the extensive subway laid out by the Rapid Transit Commission.

They will come into the field with a combined capital of $100,000,000, each member of the syndicate contributing one-third of that amount. This announcement is made upon substantial information, and dispels the mystery that has for several months enshrouded the project.

THOMAS F. RYAN.

The distinguished Virginian, who controls the Equitable Life Assurance Society, with its immense surplus, is now planning the organization of a giant trust company, with deposits aggregating $100,000,000. The concern will be the greatest of its kind in the United States and one of the largest financial institutions in the world.

Improving the plight of the Equitable Society has led me to accept the trusteeship tender, I cannot rid myself of the belief that what has overtaken this company is liable to happen to other insurance companies and fiduciary organizations as long as lax ideas of responsibility in places of trust are tolerated by our people. The high pressure of speculation, the madness of inordinate business scheming and the chances taken in now and uncertain enterprises, are constantly presenting temptations, too often successful, in leading managers and directors away from scrupulous loyalty and fidelity to the interests of others confided to their care. "We can better afford to slacken our pace than to abandon our old simple, American standards of honesty, and we shall be safer if we regain our sonnel of the so-called "Metropolitan interests," which in an impersonal way have been recognized as a potent factor in the future development of New York's future rapid transit development.

While all details concerning the new syndicate cannot be given at this time, it is recognized in Wall Street that the combined financial resources of the three men are sufficient to carry through, without outside aid, the extensive contracts which they hope to obtain. In past years they have been associated in large traction interests in New York and other cities, and have successfully carried through many other undertakings.

Mr. Ryan and Mr. Berwind are well known in New York's financial affairs, and Mr. Widener is one of the wealthiest men in Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT WILL TAKE MATTER UP

Promises to Do All in His Power to Promote Trade With China.

FORMAL PROTEST WAS MADE

Delegation Declared Chinese Exclusion Laws Imperil Stability of Business Relations.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Roosevelt held a conference today with about thirty members of the American Asiatic Association, representing the cotton textile industry and the iron and steel trade of the United States. The delegation entered a formal protest against such an enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws as might imperil the export trade of this country with China. It was pointed out that the commercial organizations of China were threatening to boycott American goods, especially cotton and steel products, unless arrangements were made whereby Chinese merchants, students, literary men and travelers could enter the United States without the serious difficulty which they now encounter. The Chinese urge that members of the classes, which, under our exclusion laws are permitted to enter the United States are often subjected to inconvenience and humiliation by the immigration officers and they insist upon a more liberal treatment of the exempt classes of their countrymen. The delegation was headed by John Ford, of New York, secretary of the American Asiatic Association.

President Roosevelt responded cordially. He took exception to the intimation that the immigration officers were too insistent in the enforcement of the law, but in other respects agreed with the delegation that it would be proper for this government to encourage friendly relations with China. He proposed to do all in his power to promote United States trade with China and to promote, generally, the export trade of American producers, farmers, as well as manufacturers. He promised to take up the subject with Secretary McCall, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, and other officials and to do all possible to remedy the difficulty.

COVERED MILE IN 28 SECONDS

Ohio. The engineer stopped his train, and fifteen minutes were lost in futile effort to cool the troublesome axle. Finally, a freight engine was attached and the train limped into Crestline. Here the freight engine was in waiting, and when the "flyer" left that latter place it was twenty-six minutes late. The run to Fort Wayne, 131 miles away, was made in 114 1/2 minutes, an average of 68 1/2 miles an hour. When the train pulled out of Fort Wayne for the last lap of the long journey, it was only 2 1/2 minutes late, 16 1/2 minutes of the lost time having been made up. Miles were frequently reeled off in from 41 to 50 seconds, and an average speed of a mile a minute was easily maintained over long stretches of track.

Already the Pennsylvania Railroad officials are discussing the possibility of reducing the running time between Chicago and New York to sixteen hours.

Ahead of Fast Schedule.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, June 12.—The first east-bound train of the Pennsylvania Railroad's new eighteen hour service, between New York and Chicago, arrived in Jersey City at 9:22 A. M. today, three minutes ahead of schedule time. The running time of the train from Chicago to Jersey City was seventeen hours and thirty-seven minutes. The engineer of the train said, on arriving, that a short distance east of Hobart, Ind., the train covered a mile in thirty-five seconds.
